PARENTS' DAY

Observed By the Sardis Consolidated School Last Wednesday.

On Wednesday of last week the Sardis Consolidated school observed Parents' Day in a very unique way. Invitations were sent to the parents, who responded, bringing large and well filled baskets. On arriving they found the rooms decorated with designs appropriate to Thanksgiving, as well as maps, drawings, cuttings, raffia work and various other exhibits of each child in the school. In the forenoon the work was carried out as usual, giving the parents an opportunity of seeing their children at work. At 12 o'clock a splendid repast, consisting of ham, chicken, salads, sandwiches, celery, pickles, pies, cakes etc., was spread and the testy manner in which this food was prepared shows that the people of this district are skilled in the domestic science.

The afternoon was given over to two games of basketball, a potato race by the girls and a sack race by the boys, which furnished a great deal of amusement. County Superintendent Jessie O. Yancey was present and spoke on "Opportunities For Better Schools."

Misses King and Tugge, the County Supervisors, and Mr. Boyd, the Corn Club agent, were also present. At 4 o'clock every one departed for home highly commending the work of the teachers and pupils.

MAN SUDDENLY STRICKEN.

Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock Mr. R. S. Remington, of Erlanger, Ky., was suddenly stricken with a severe attack of acute indigestion in the lobby of the Whitehall Hotel. Dr. J. H. Samuel was summoned and after examining the stricken man ordered that he be sent to Hayeswood Hospital, where he received treatment that permitted him to resume his duties at the dam, where he is employed.

Henry Wallenstein, aged 32, of Maysville, and Edith Greenlee, aged 27, of Manchester, were granted license to wed at West Union, O., last week.

Mr. J. B. Kempel, of Manchester, was in Maysville Sunday.

Mr. W. R. Metcalf, of Millersburg, was in this city Sunday.

GROUND TO PIECES

At King and Jerry Herman Meet Death In Silver Grove Yards Saturday Night.

Saturday night about 12 o'clock Al King, aged 42, and Jerry Herman, aged 31, both of Covington, met their death in the C. & O. yards at Silver Grove, Ky., being ground to bits under the wheels of a freight train.

The men were employed as conductor and brakeman on a C. & O. freight train and at the time of the accident were checking up the cars of their train. They were standing on the track and the noise of their train drowned the rumbling of a cut of cars approaching them. They were knocked down and the wheels of the cars passed over Herman and cut off both legs and mashed him considerably. King was dragged by the brake beam and all of his ribs were broken.

The men died before help could reach them.

King is survived by his wife and one son, about 15 years old. Herman is survived by his wife.

Failure to have proper lights on the cars of the accident, it is said, was the cause of the accident.

Mrs. O. E. Carson, of Vancburg, was shopping in this city Saturday.

Miss Louise Sproenberg is visiting friends in Cincinnati.

COLD STORAGE PRODUCTS.

Much is often said in derision of cold storage products. Epicures claim to be able to detect goods that have been subjected to refrigeration, and complain of the flat taste. Too keen perceptions are sometimes uncomfortable.

In these days of high food prices, the cold storage plant is a godsend. One can only imagine where prices would have gone, had not these products come in to steady the market. People who are doing a good amount of physical labor are not quite so discriminating as to taste. Appetite is better than the best seasoning. There are many cold storage products that are to be detected only by the nose—sour and penetrating taste.

Complaint is made of the high prices charged. Yet they always have to be well below the price of fresh goods. The methods of refrigeration have been steadily improving, and much of the feeling against them is only prejudice. As people become accustomed to using these goods it should tend to start more competition and keep down prices. In many localities farmers could get better returns for themselves and serve the public by erecting cold storage warehouses for the products of the district.

A snake, a liar, a gossip and a loud mouthed bully are among the most delectable abominations this world has ever produced—except the cuss who reads his home paper for five years and then refuses to pay.

If we could have Cupid as our commander-in-chief and use his darts in lieu of bullets, war would become a popular pastime and every female in this blessed town would be rushing off to enlist.

Some of these European people are ready to fight, bleed and die so that their kings may continue to have the right to trample the life out of them.

Beware of the convivial spirit. His attractiveness usually lies solely in his conviviality.

PROSPERITY AT LAST.

There is no longer any doubt of the return of prosperity. Our old friend is with us again. He is not here in great chunks, with bags full of shimmering gold and automobiles for everybody, but the old boy has brought a steady increase in the volume of business and a relaxation in the money markets, and a renewed confidence in business circles and in the agricultural districts.

Men of all classes are loosening their purses, money is on a hunt for investment, employers are taking on more men and the wheels of industry are humming at a more rapid rate than for many months past.

Merchants report increased sales and easier collections, buyers are selecting better and more expensive goods and a spirit of relief and confidence is in evidence everywhere.

There are bright spots ahead for the future. Let's all steer for them and keep head and eyes to the front.

President Wilson is said to do quite good work writing out his own messages on the typewriter and he probably does not stop and run to the window when the hurdy gurdy play, either.

We can't all be rich, and we won't all be paupers, but we can have a deal of fun trotting along in the middle of the road.

Fun---Well Done

The Lesser of Two Evils.

"I'm in a difficulty, old chap," said Tom Thompson to a pal.

"What's the trouble?"

"I've two invitations for dinner on Saturday evening, and I can't make up my mind—"

"Which to accept?" interrupted his envious friend.

"No; which to refuse. At one house the daughter is learning to play the violin, and at the other the 9-year-old son recites Shakespeare!"

Munificence.

There was keen rivalry between Dibble and Drill—two seedsmen, who did everything they could think of to "cut down" each other.

One day Dibble put a large notice in his window saying: "With every plant we give a packet of seeds."

Drill was not to be outdone. A few minutes later he had a notice glaring in his window with the following inscription: "With every plant we give the earth."

Shoe Box Lunches

It was not long ago that the picnic lunch was quite fashionable. However, popular among the common people, society considered it undignified.

If you ate out of a pasteboard box, instead of going to the best hotel in sight, it was felt you were merely trying to economize.

That point of view seems to have gone by. The automobile has brought in the habit of roadside lunches. Even President Wilson and his bride-elect were reported a few days ago on the roadside of the Baltimore highway eating out of a basket.

Lunching out of a box on the train was once considered particularly bad form. Even if, wearied by the fatigues of travel, you wished merely for a sandwich and a banana, you were supposed to pay $1 for a full course meal in the gilded dining car. Then you had to tip the waiter a quarter for services you did not want.

Today all the railroads recognize the vogue of the box luncheon habit, and have attractive hand-outs neatly put up for this purpose. It does help a lot to reduce the cost of traveling. Feeding a family on the move, at the high rates of transient and dining car service, seems to cost nearly as much as the mileage. The use of the thrifty luncheon box goes far to make many vacation trips possible.

As for the roadside lunch of the motor party, it has something of the charm of gypsy life. In the invigorating open air it tastes better than the hotel dinner, and with the good appetite gained outdoors, it is quite as sustaining.

This is one of the many respects in which human life tends to become less conventional. People are tired of doing things merely to keep up appearances or to conform to the habits and purses of others. The picnic luncheon may look cluttery, but it is practical, and in keeping with the outing spirit. If it is good enough for the President, it is good enough for the rest of us.

ITEMS FROM ALL AROUND

Stiff Price.

(Falmouth, Outlook.)

G. M. Harcum, the laundry and dry cleaning man, went hunting last Thursday and killed five rabbits that cost him $1.15 apiece. He could have bought them for 75 cents, but he would not have had the $5 worth of fun.

Factory Booming.

(Three States.)

The Middlesboro overall factory under the new management is booming, and is rushed to its capacity to fill orders. This concern has recently closed orders with some large jobbing houses that will take all its output.

Ferry Changes Hands.

(Benton Tribune-Democrat.)

R. B. Coffman, of Birmingham, was here Monday to close a deal with Newt Higgins, of Lyon count, for the sale of the ferry at Birmingham. This ferry will hereafter be operated by Lyon county owners instead of Marshall county people.

Better Than Turkey.

(Hopkinsville New Era.)

Colonel Charles F. Johnson drove his car out to a nearby pond yesterday morning. He had his rod joined before he reached the water's edge and in a twinkling selected just the right colored fly from the hook in his breast pocket. In little more than an hour later he had six bass, averaging one and one-quarter pounds each, in his creel. A dish of fish was the Thanksgiving turkey at Colonel Johnson's house last night.

Long Turkey Drive.

(Pembroke Journal.)

R. B. Griffin, a poultry dealer of Kirkmansville, a thriving town in the northern corner of Christian and Todd counties, delivered a drove of between 400 and 500 turkeys to Fox Brothers at Hopkinsville Saturday morning. The turkeys made the trip on foot, and were on the road from Wednesday. The nights were spent in barns along the road. This is the first time a large drove of turkeys has ever been delivered in this section in such manner. But it is said the birds made the trip without trouble, and were easily driven, three men bringing them all the way.

A VOLCANO SPECIALIST.

Frank Alvord Perret, whose knowledge of volcanoes is probably unique in the world, is an American, a native of Hartford, Conn. After volcanic outbursts he has been able to accurately forecast their conduct for some time to come, and in this way his labors have been of inestimable value to residents of volcanic districts. He has visited and studied practically every volcano in note in the world. He was the first to reach Messina after the devastating earthquake in 1908. As an inventor he is widely known. In 1904 he took up volcanology and became honorary assistant to Prof. Matteucci in the royal observatory, Mt. Vesuvius, and was later decorated knight of the Italian crown.

YOUNGEST MARINE IN WORLD.

Vallejo, Cal., December 3.—Although his parents didn't raise him to be a soldier, Frederic C. Bradman, Jr., of Mare Island, aged 7 years, has twice formally enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and is a corporal in his second "hitch," to use the sea-soldier vernacular.

Corporal Bradman wears a service stripe and good conduct medal as a reward for excellent service during his first enlistment and also "sports" a sharpshooter's badge that was won by proxy. The youngest marine has had two years' foreign service in Cuba which will count as four years toward the thirty years necessary for retirement. And Corporal Bradman says he will re-enlist until he shall have served thirty years.

SAW HIS DUTY POINTED OUT STIRRING OF YOUNG MANHOOD

Advertisement of John Ware Gave Valuable Idea to the Traveling Salesman.

"While working through Pennsylvania recently I saw an advertisement that ought to bring relief to a few distressed souls," said the traveling salesman. "It headed the personal column and said:

"Be it hereby known to all my correspondents that I have this day destroyed all letters they would wish to be destroyed. JOHN WARE."

"That notice was so extraordinary that I stopped over for a late train and called on John Ware. He was a genial old man and willing to talk. He said he was a person to whom people voluntarily confided secrets; that many persons in bursts of confidence had written letters to him which they had doffed afterward regretted having written."

"Sometimes they said, 'Destroy this,' sometimes they didn't. Anyhow, John Ware had kept most of those incriminating letters. But now that he was getting old he had seen what harm might result from those letters falling into strange and unscrupulous hands, and he had burned them and had taken that novel way of notifying his correspondents that they were safe."

"That talk with John Ware set me thinking. The first thing I did when I got back to New York was to burn a batch of letters."

With Fuller Skirts That Swing and Fly, Colored Silks Will Show
Beneath Them.

The little three-year-old son of a proud North side father and mother became so greatly interested in a photograph belonging to one of the neighbors that he quite forgot to go home at his accustomed bedtime.

"Tell you what we'll do," said his father to his mother. "We'll put out the lights and pretend we've gone to bed. That will teach Master Benjie a lesson."

He called several times before his mother, too kind-hearted to keep him waiting any longer, answered him in make-believe sleepy tones.

"What is it, my child?" asked the mother.

With trembling voice the youngster replied:

"Mother, will you please tell Benjamin's father that his son is out here and wants to come in?"

Next morning at breakfast the parents, who were prepared to hear their little son excuse his conduct of the evening before, were astonished to hear him exclaim:

"Papa, don't you think it's time I was having a night key?"—Youngstown Telegram.

PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

BUILD ROADS IN MOUNTAINS

California Highway Commissioner Points Way for Opening of Arable Lands—Convicts to Be Used.

"If you will give us the convicts to build roads through the mountains there are 7,500,000 acres of arable land on the eastern plateau of the Sierras that can be opened for settlement," said Charles F. Stern, highway commissioner of California, in supporting the bill which passed the California legislature to permit prisoners to be employed in road building.

California prisoners have not been employed in this work other than in a small way around the prison, but the need of opening the mountain districts has started road building by the prisoners.

The act just passed is modeled after Colorado legislation, under which excellent results have been obtained.

The highway department is authorized to make requisition upon the prison department for the number of convicts required, and is to organize and maintain the camps as well as supervise the road work. The prison department, however, retains control over the discipline of the prisoners, and although the national committee on prisons and prison labor believes better results can be had under the West Virginia system, where the prison department maintains the camps, both the convicts and the state of California will assuredly benefit under the new legislation.

The men are to be worked under the honor system, and the prison department is empowered to grant additional good time allowance to convicts employed in this work, conditioned upon their loyal, obedient and efficient cooperation with the state.

To bring about the earlier completion of the state highways which will make the isolated regions accessible, the bill went into effect ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature.

Reporting the successful passage of the act to the national committee on prisons and prison labor, Mr. Stern writes: "We expect to use from 1,000 to 1,500 convicts on our mountain roads, and a year hence will

They have grown noticeably longer, too, and this proclaims the fact that dress skirts will no longer flit between the ankles and the knees. While a few designers continue to favor the short skirt, most of them have placed the stamp of their approval upon the ankle length skirt for walking and longer skirts for house wear.

Oriental laces, also val and chantilly, are made up in two or three long flounces to be worn under or over plain net skirts made very full. Metal-embroidered net flounces are used on dancing gowns under net merely edged with gold or silver. Exquisite dance frocks are made of alternate rows of lace and ribbon flounces, scantily gathered, the lace usually wider, but the ribbon fully eight inches wide.

Opalescent and metal-embroidered nets come in the full width of the net, and in flounces of various widths. Tulle and net-embroidered flounces very finely braided are now to be found among laces. Full ruffles of very fine lace are now used on each side of V-shaped necks, continuing as one to the waist line.

Silk nets are even more used than laces for flouncings, entire or combination waists, tunics, etc. Net and lace or chiffon form smart waists for handsome suits in black, with white, flesh, all-white and an etru called shantung.

Powdered Pumice-Stone Bag.

A bag filled with powdered pumice stone is an excellent window cleaner. Make the bag of unbleached cotton cloth of a soft quality, not too firm.

When finished, the bag is six inches wide and twelve inches long. Into this put about one-eighth of a pound of pumice stone. To prevent soiling this bag, it is slipped into a cheese-cloth case that can be removed and washed. No water is used on the window, but it is rubbed first with a piece of tissue paper, then polished with the bag.

Brocade Party Bag.

Charming bags for afternoon and evening are made of bright brocade, lined with white or plain-colored satin or silk, with a little line of ribbon flowers on the inside of the casing which holds the drawstrings. They are fitted with the usual complement of mirror and powder putt.

Influence of Automobiles.

In spite of much lingering prejudice against automobiles their influence in improving roads is everywhere in evidence in a way which cannot be denied.

Help Strawberry Plants.

If strawberry runners are not root- ing well throw a little dirt over ends of the runners or places at which plants have started.

Supplement the Pastures.

Loss, expense and risk hasten in the way of withered pastures, unless supplemental feeds are promptly supplied.

The Greatest Tax.

It costs the American farmer more to feed his insect foes than it does to educate his children.

The Tobacco Market Will Open Tuesday, December 7

Now Open and Ready to Receive Tobacco

The Central, Home, Planters, Farmers and Independent Warehouses. Sold during the season 1914-15 23,110,000 pounds of tobacco at an average of $8.22½. The Burley District averaged $7.21. The above houses sold $1.01 higher. The following markets, Ripley, Brooksville, Augusta, Flemingsburg, Vaneburg, Manchester, West Union and Georgetown, sold 18,047,000 pounds at an average of $7.40, ranging from $5.65 to $8.09. Had this tobacco been sold in the Central, Home, Planters, Farmers or Independent, the growers would have gotten $148,887.50 more money.

We intend that this year's record shall beat last. The above mentioned houses being under one management, will enable us to get you unloaded and sold the day you arrive. If you can't get into one, you can another. Your tobacco will be sorted and handled with equal care in any of our houses. And, remember, no office or employee will be engaged in speculating in tobacco. But all their efforts and best judgment will be given to the growers in getting the top of the market. Come any time and we will guarantee polite and satisfactory treatment.

Hundreds of Customers Waiting For You

Do you know that in this town and farming community there are many families who buy a majority of their goods in Maysville, from some merchant or other.

Do you know that YOU might just as well have a large percentage of this town and do you know that this business is SPOT CASH because the people HAVE THE MONEY and are NOT AFRAID TO SPEND IT?

Do you know that to get this business you must FIRST REACH THE PEOPLE and then know WHAT YOU HAVE?

Do you know that there is no other paper published that reaches these people as thoroughly and as effectively and with as tight a grip as THE PUBLIC LEDGER does?

The buyers in this community are an intelligent class of people, and they insist on knowing something about the goods before they part with their money.

Your advertisement in THE LEDGER will appeal to them because it is THEIR OWN PAPER, and because they KNOW that we do not accept questionable advertisements at any price.

Because we feel that you are keen on getting a goodly slice of this business a representative of THE LEDGER will take the liberty of calling upon you within a few days, at which time he will illustrate to you more fully the advantages to be derived from placing a classified advertisement before a class of people who buy liberally and have the money with which to pay.

Rev. H. B. Wilhoite is having great success in his revival, his church here is at work and one of the liveliest wires in the city.

Great things are coming to Aberdeen, O., this week. The Baptist church there is holding a great meeting. Let every one attend this feast of good things.

Dr. Maurice Waller filled the pulpit of the Central Presbyterian church Sunday. Dr. Waller always has a message from God and knows how to deliver it. It is always a pleasure to listen to him.

SOME TOBACCO SALES.

(Mt. Olivet Tribune-Democrat) Miss Hattie McDowell last week sold to C. D. Asbury twelve hogsheads of old tobacco, embracing several crops raised on her lands in this country and amounting to about 15,000 pounds. The price paid was 7 cents. This was probably the largest quantity of old tobacco remaining unsold in this country.

Dr. N. B. Chapman, of Falmouth, sold 50,000 pounds of low grade old tobacco to a Louisville trader at a reported price of 5½ cents. He had bought the tobacco on his farm on the Mt. Hutt and Hitt pike, known as the Bradley homestead.

NEW MILITARY MAP.

Washington, December 6.—A portable military and naval topographical map for use of air scouts in the field, and which will enable them to make quick and realistic reports of observations, has been invented by Gunny Sergeant Herman G. Stroschein, of the United States Marine Corps.

Worm gearing, operated by telescopic thumb screws from the sides of the map, will create elevations and depressions thereon, showing terrain, contours of valleys, bodies of water, etc., and should make the aviator's part clear to the newest man in the operations. Stroschein claims it will be very light though it, and is thought by many that one of the us confronting aviators in speed and accuracy in observation—will have been the use of the marine service.

Sergeant Stroschein is on headquarters of the United Corps in this city.

ING RUSSELL YARDS ALMOST DONE.

In lengthening the tracks in O. yards at Russell, Ky., is going rapidly under the superintendence of W. H. Sparks. A force of men is busy laying the additional tracks. The work will be completed by December 20. The tracks in the yards, when completed, will be able to accommodate a train of from 100 to 110 cars, while at present two tracks have to be used.

INDIAN FAMILIES ON COURIER.

Sunday afternoon when the steamer Courier stopped at this city the bystanders about the wharf were met with an odd sight. Among the passengers on the boat were several families of full-blooded South American Indians bound for Southern ports.

They were of a copper color with jet hair. They carried with them a piping outfit and drove several horses.

Squire Musel had Mrs. Bertha Wyatt and 18-year-old daughter, Miss Cecil, of Ryan, before him here last Saturday, it being his regular court day, on a charge of breach of peace. They are charged with beating up Mrs. Matilda Stacy, aged 55, recently, at that place. The case was transferred to the County Judge for trial at Flemingsburg.

Homer B., 17-year-old son of Charles H. Compton and wife, of this place, died here last Friday after suffering for seven weeks with typhoid fever and pneumonia fevers. He was first stricken down with typhoid and after a siege of four weeks, grew better, when double pneumonia set in, after which he lingered for three weeks.

He had the care of a trained nurse and the best medical care that could be procured, but after making a strong fight, in his weakened condition, he was compelled to yield. He was a generous, kind-hearted young man, respected and loved by all, dying triumphant in the love of God. He leaves a grief stricken father and mother, four brothers and two sisters, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss. Peace be to his ashes.

HARVARD EXPERTS LEARN RETAIL GROCERY SECRETS.

Cambridge, Mass., December 6.—Experts at Harvard have discovered some new and very strange facts about retail grocery stores. Dr. Melvin T. Copeland, instructor in marketing, is investigating this field, which has never before been looked into carefully. Not only are the groceries poorly managed, but the public pays for the failures, the investigator finds. For, it is claimed, the money must be made up in some other way and the price of all goods is raised. Among other things, the college prober discovered.

That many stores are run at a loss, yet the proprietors don't know it.

That partners turn profits into losses by taking home too much stock.

That women running corner stores are not doomed to failure if they are careful.

That stock is sometimes so large that profits do not cover interest on the money tied up.

That storekeepers often entirely neglect management in order to sell goods over the counter.

MODERN DANCES

And Those of a Century Or More Ago
Introduced in Tuesday Night
Attraction At Opera House.

From time to time during the past theatrical season, stories have come to the newspapers regarding the successful engagement played by "When Dreams Come True," in New York, Chicago and Boston.

Our local theatergoers who have no doubt read these stories, will now have an opportunity of seeing this widely discussed musical comedy when it comes to the Washington Theater Tuesday night.

The play tells of the adventures of a wealthy New Yorker's spry young son who becomes involved with a French dancer while he is in Paris, has his allowance cut off by the irate parent, and thus is compelled to go home in the steerage. In the first cabin there is a young girl whom he sees and with whom he falls in love from afar, but of course can not meet
